Passport to the Wines of the World Networking reception

This event is a novel way to “kick-off” any meeting. As guests enter the venue, they are issued Passports by America’s 1st Master Sommelier, Eddie Osterland. It creates movement around the room (often people tend to camp near where alcohol is being served and don’t really do any networking). Eddie makes a 15 minute presentation prior to guests entering the venue to explain the event. This Passport format can be used as a guide to food & wine stations or, as a dinner menu. People don’t throw these away because they look so official. They are designed with your logo and corporate message. People keep them on their desks and talk about the event they just experienced.

“Creating a dynamic wine and food experience to entertain, educate and add value to your next event”.
